

Giving Champion

An individual who is experiencing the joy of giving increasingly generously and is motivated to encourage others in their generosity journey.

A Giving Champion's spheres of influence include family, friends, business, church, community, and the world. This desire to encourage others is often a calling.

Attributes of Giving Champions:

- I attempt to pursue God's plan in every aspect of my finances.
- I encourage others to begin their journey of generosity
- I give to facilitate generosity in others.
- I am motivated by transformation in others.
- I seek to steward my L.I.F.E. (Labor, Influence, Finances, and Expertise)
- I intentionally seek to influence family, friends, church, and community with living ever more generously.
- I am comfortable around those with wealth.
- I can challenge without being judgmental.
- I find joy in seeing life-change in others.
- I consider how I can utilize my influence and affluence for God's kingdom.
- I am learning to seek the approval God more than man.
- I see this as a further expression of my gift of giving.
- I experience a sense of purpose and calling while encouraging others in their generosity.

Things to Read or Do:

- Bring others to a Celebration of Generosity
- Host a Journey of Generosity (JOG)
- Be trained as a JOG Facilitator
- Go on a family mission trip
- Spend time investing in others - mentoring
- Lead a Compass Charting Your Legacy group
- Serve on the Board of a Local Christian Foundation

Reflection Questions:

1. Who would benefit from these experiences?
2. Who am I intentionally mentoring?
3. How can I disciple my kids and grandkids to be generous givers?
4. What might my church look like with a growing culture of generosity?
5. Am I equipped to share my giving story?